announces

CALL FOR PAPERS

THE NINETEENTH ANNUAL GRADUATE STUDENT RESEARCH CONFERENCE
2009 Thinking Gender

Friday, February 6, 2009
UCLA FACULTY CENTER

Thinking Gender is a public conference highlighting graduate student research on women, sexuality and gender across all disciplines and historical periods. We invite submissions for individual papers or preconstituted panels. This year, we especially welcome feminist research on:

- women and media
- local feminist issues and concerns in Southern California
- women and the environment (e.g., ecofeminism, the built environment, urban planning, architecture)
- women and political activism (e.g., women in government, women and war/peace)
- embodiment (e.g., disability, genetics)
- women in sports

For individual papers, please submit a 250-word abstract, a CV (2 pages maximum, no resumes, please), and a brief bibliography (1 page maximum). For panels, please submit a 250-word description of the panel topic in addition to the materials required for the individual paper submissions. Please reference the submission guidelines at <http://www.csw.ucla.edu/thinkinggender.html>, and note that only complete applications adhering to the stated guidelines will be accepted.

Deadline for Submissions: Wednesday, October 22, 2008, by midnight.
We will only accept completed submissions emailed by the deadline, without exception.
Please send submissions to: thinkinggender@women.ucla.edu
